Old Self, New Self...

We greet you children of Light. We bring you the light of the way to assist you in bringing more peace and joy into your lives.

As a collective you are experiencing turbulent weather as a result of you all moving towards the higher dimensions.

The friction is caused by not being able to properly let go of the old way of doing things.

The human being is a being of habits, and its life is centered around repeating similar things over and over again.

Now this pattern can be used in many ways. At first you may think of bad habits that you are unable to get rid of, but at the same time you can use this to incorporate constructive things into your life that can propel you forward.

Every one of your minds works in a similar fashion; each individual uses their tool kit to their best ability to create the life that they want to live.

All expressions are valid, all expressions are indispensable for creating reality around you.

All of your life you have been using the power of your habits to create the life experience that you are currently in, and as we have stated earlier, you have always been manifesting, but now the time has come for you to start using your gifts in a conscious manner.

You have all the tools and knowledge at your disposal, thus you may begin using them each day in this conscious manner/way.

It has taken you many years to form the patterns that define your life right now, and it may take an equal amount of time to reprogram the way your mind functions.

It may seem daunting but rest assured, that the conscious effort that you put into it, can bring you results much sooner than you think.

You have formed your unconscious beliefs and patterns across many years by simple being present in your society.

The first phase of successful reprogramming is actually bringing forth all of the programs that have defined your life so far.

You have a great opportunity to do so at this time, since all the energies that are flowing through your world are promoting this.

You are in the period of the great cleansing, when all that which was hidden so far, is brought to the surface to be seen by all.

You have been all observing this in your world, where the dysfunctionality of society has been so intensified that you can no longer ignore it.

The same is happening in each of your lives. All the hurts, traumas and patterns that are not representative of your Higher Self, are intensifying now. From time to time you may find yourself in experiences which bring these up.

These patterns come up for the purpose of assisting you in your healing process.

As they are coming up, merely observe them, see them for what they are, patterns of the old you, a you that is still trying to hold onto things that are not working.

Instead of fighting it, see them, observe them, and let them pass.

If they come up in your mind, know that you don't have to act upon them.

As you are advancing on your journey you are expanding in both directions, which means you are becoming more aware of the Light and of the Night.

This is a natural part of your journey towards attainment, and your task in all of this is to choose which direction you want to go.

The undesired aspects of life may come up time and time again, but you have the power to choose.

Always ask yourself which action is representative of the You that you want to become, then act accordingly.

We have deliberately focused on taking action in your physical reality, for many believe that in order to bring about change, one just needs to visualize things and feel it, then wait for it to happen.

In part this is true, for that is the first phase of the process, but since you are living in a physical reality you also have to function accordingly.

The more you choose to act in a way that is representative of your higher self, you will find that things will manifest more easily in your life. Things that, so far, seemed impossible may now come into being, for you are letting go of all the resistance and expectations of the ego mind.

Your Ego mind was responsible to keep you alive and functioning in the 3rd Dimension, but you are moving into the higher realms where your new best friend will be your Higher Self, that self that sees all and extends beyond anything that the Ego mind was capable of imagining.

With that we leave you children of light,
Be well,
A'ho Blessings
